

FEBRUARY NEWSLETTER

TECHNOLOGY BLOG

Dynamics 365 Legacy Web Client Being Deprecated

NEALABC would like to remind Dynamics365 users that the legacy web client, process dialogs and task flows currently being used today

SALES BLOG

Quantifying the value of collaboration with Teams

Employees save four hours each week with improved collaboration and information sharing, according to Forrester's Total Economic

TECHNOLOGY BLOG

Digital Transformation with Microsoft

Where do you see your business in 5 years? Technology is being used to transform every industry.

HOW MIGRATING TO AZURE IS MODERNIZING JB HUNT

JB Hunt is reinventing its enterprise by migrating to the Azure cloud, which is helping the company manage 18 billion integration points and 8 billion transactions over the next 3-5 years.

Click here to read the whole story

Tips on surviving Groundhog Day

February 2, the annual celebration surrounding Punxsutawney Phil and his emergence from his home on Gobbler’s Knob to grace us with news of how many more weeks of winter there is to be. If Phil sees his shadow and returns to his hole, then the prediction is six more weeks of winter. If not shadow, then our favorite groundhog predicts an “early” spring.

Read the whole story here

“what’s the definition of insanity?”

FEBRUARY BLOG

CATCHING YOUR SECOND WIND

By Dave Neal

I was out jogging this morning, before it gets too hot in the Phoenix desert.

Although I’m in reasonable shape, invariably the first quarter mile or so is a real effort. It feels like my body is rebelling against the whole running process. I begin to wonder if this is doing me any good.

Perhaps I should stop and eliminate the pain, heck I can’t remember why I’m doing this anyway!

But then, in the second quarter mile something happens, I start to get my “second wind”, my body seems to be getting in sync, the pain goes away and breathing levels out and the harmony of a good run takes over.

Read the whole blog here